

When we look at the world around us, it isn't difficult to see conflict brewing. If we're honest, we feel it within ourselves and yet we do everything we can to avoid it. What if we could cultivate these feelings toward a common good? In order to do so, we must consider our emotions in light of scripture and psychology. Join us as we unpack emotional intelligence as disciples of Jesus who entered into our story to show us a better way.